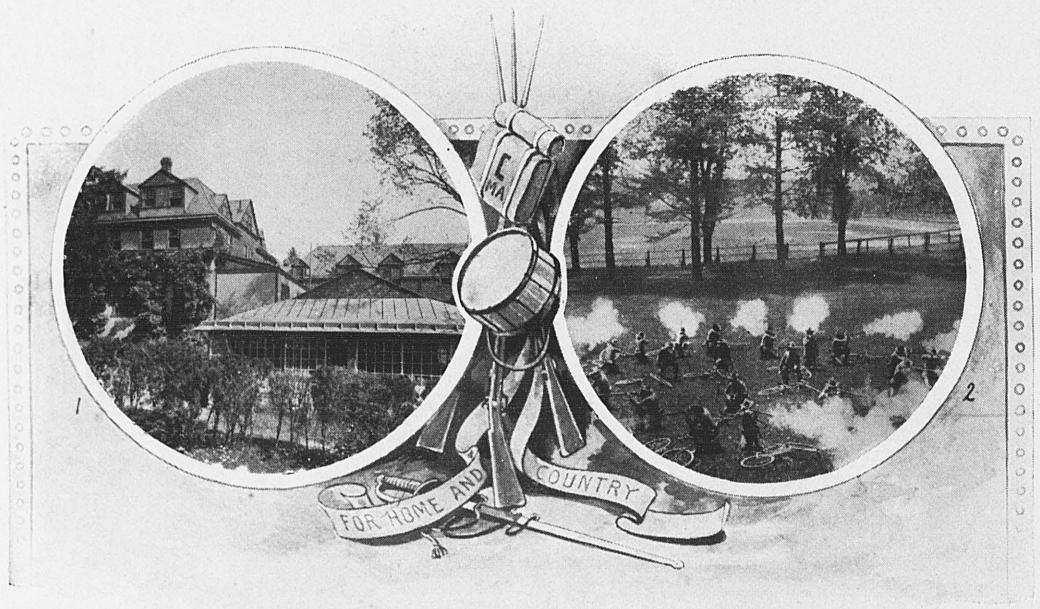
CHELTENHAM MILITARY ACADEMY

OGONTZ, PA.
(NEAR PHILADELPHIA)

"AN IDEAL SCHOOL IN AN IDEAL LOCATION"



CHELTENHAM MILITARY ACADEMY, on the summit of the Chelten Hills, near Philadelphia, has a location and environment rarely equaled for beauty and healthfulness. The School was founded twenty-eight years ago by the late Rev. Samuel Clements, D. D., and from its opening has had the best class of patronage and has met with unusual success in the training and education of young men and boys. A majority of its graduates enter leading colleges or scientific schools, and for the past six years its annual representation in such institutions has been equal to one-half the attendance of the school.

Among the features that have contributed to the success and popularity of the Academy, the following will at once commend themselves to judicious parents: 1. The attendance is limited to seventy boarding pupils, in order that the classes may not be so large as to render attention to the individual pupil inconvenient or impossible. 2. Ten resident instructors (an average of one for every seven cadets), selected for their ability and experience and for their willingness to take an interest in the welfare and happiness of the pupils. 3. An honest endeavor to train and educate the whole boy rather than to merely prepare him to pass college entrance examinations. 4. The moral tone and influence of the institution.

The next school year begins Wednesday, September 26, 1900.

Parents seeking the right school for a boy are cordially invited to visit the Academy, or to communicate with the Principal. Rooms are assigned in order of application.

For Illustrated Catalogue address the Principal,

REV. JOHN D. SKILTON. A.M., Ogontz, Pa.

JOHN VEITCH SHOEMAKER, M. D., LL. D., one of the most widely known of American Physicians, was born on March 18, 1852, in Chambersburg, Pa., and is a son of Lewis A. and Mary M. (Greenewalt) Shoemaker, and is a grandson of the famous Anthony Shoemaker.

As a boy in the public schools he evinced great interest in study, with the result that he graduated from Dickinson College, in 1872, with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. In that year he removed to Philadelphia and entered the Jefferson Medical College, graduating as a Doctor of Medicine in 1874, and the faculty of the college, appreciating Dr. Shoemaker's worth, immediately tendered him the post of Demonstrator of Anatomy. In 1876 he was chosen Lecturer on Anatomy, and also on Diseases of the Skin, at the Philadelphia School of Anatomy, but in 1878 resigned this position, and in 1880 that of Demonstrator at Jefferson, also, in order to give his complete attention to other work.

While holding both the foregoing appointments he lectured to large classes of students, and gained great popularity as Quiz Master in Materia Medica of the Jefferson Quiz Association, which he had been active in organizing in 1874. With a view of remedying in some highly efficient degree the dearth then existing of instruction in cutaneous diseases, Dr. Shoemaker established, in 1875, a dispensary for the treatment of those afflicted. This institution was such a success that in 1880 hospital accommodations had to be provided to meet its requirements. In 1883 he was named Lecturer on Skin Diseases in Jefferson Medical College, but resigned the position three years later to accept the Professorship of Skin and Venereal Diseases in the Medico-Chirurgical College, of Philadelphia. This chair he still occupies, and since 1889 has filled also a second chair, that of Materia Medica, Pharmacology, Therapeutics, and Clinical Medicine. Laboring heart and soul for the advancement of the Medico-Chirurgical Hospital, he was honored by election to its Board of Trustees, and subsequently became Treasurer to that body, and has been for some years one of the Physicians to the Medico-Chirurgical Hospital. In 1879, in conjunction with other noted physicians, he founded The Medical Bulletin, which, after the first year, he conducted alone, and edited it with such marked ability as to win the unsolicited approval of no less an authority than Professor Samuel D. Gross.

In 1887 Dr. Shoemaker began the publication of a weekly medical journal in Philadelphia known as The Medical Register, which at a later date was merged with The Medical Times, forming the publication now known throughout the medical world as The Medical Times and Register. Dr. Shoemaker is the author of many valuable text-books and papers, of which "A Practical Treatise on Diseases of the Skin" is now in its third edition. He has also published "Charts on Skin Diseases," "Poisons and Their Antidotes," and a handsome royal octavo volume of four hundred and twenty-five pages on "Heredity, Health and Personal Beauty," and an especial work on "Ointment and Oleates." He is a valued contributor to Wood's "Practice of Medicine," and in 1891 published an imposing volume entitled "A Treatise on Materia Medica, Pharmacology, and Therapeutics," followed in 1893 by a second edition, entitled, "Materia Medica and Therapeutics, with Especial Reference to Clinical Application of Drugs."

Professor Shoemaker is a member of the leading regular medical societies, county, State, and national, and has been successively Secretary, Vice-President and President of the American Medical Editors' Association. He is also an Honorary Member of the Minnesota State Medical Society, and a Fellow of the American Academy of Medicine. In 1884 he represented the American Medical Association, before the British Medical Association, at Belfast, Ireland, and read a paper on "The Oleates," and before the International Medical Congress, at Copenhagen, Denmark, a paper on "The Treatment of Diseases of the Skin by Novel Means and Methods." At this time he was elected a member of the British Medical Association, and a Fellow of the London Medical Society. Professor Shoemaker served as Secretary of the Committee of the American Medical Association having in charge arrangements for the Ninth International Medical Congress, at Washington, in 1887, and was a Vice-President of the Section of Dermatology and Syphilography of this congress. He was a member, likewise, of the Tenth International Medical Congress, at Berlin, in 1890; of the Pan-American Medical Congress, at Washington, in 1893, and a Delegate to and member of the Eleventh International Medical Congress, at Rome, in 1894.

Dr. John V. Shoemaker, President of the Medico-Chirurgical Hospital of Philadelphia, organized just after the outbreak of hostilities with Spain, a staff of physicians, surgeons and nurses, and at a public meeting of physicians and citizens in the hospital arena, April 22, 1898, offered the hospital and all its facilities to Pennsylvania and the United States Government.

About the middle of August, 1898, General J. P. S. Gobin appealed to Dr. Shoemaker to send a train for the sick soldiers in Camp Alger. Dr. Shoemaker at once raised the necessary money and presented to the State of Pennsylvania on August 24th, the first well equipped hospital train which General Thomas J. Stewart conducted to Camp Alger. More than one hundred very sick soldiers were brought quickly to the Medico-Chirurgical Hospital by General Stewart. During August and September, 1898, Dr. Shoemaker fitted out and manned with the co-operation of his fellow trustees, one hospital train after another bringing to the Medico-Chirurgical Hospital, from the fever stricken Camps, upwards of five hundred sick and wounded soldiers. General J. P. S. Gobin and General Thomas J. Stewart were thus enabled, through the activity and co-operation of Dr. Shoemaker in Philadelphia, to institute the first well arranged and well equipped hospital train which saved many soldiers' lives at the front and in the various camps.

Governor William A. Stone, recognizing the good work of Dr. Shoemaker in behalf of the soldiers, appointed him Surgeon-General of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, January 30, 1899. Since the appointment Dr. Shoemaker has been very active in assisting with the work of the Guard, co-operating in every way with General Stewart in perfecting the medical department. During the meeting of the Military Surgeons of the United States in New York, June 1 and 2, 1900, Dr. Shoemaker made an address upon the sick soldiers in Philadelphia during the Spanish-American War.

Recently Mayor Ashbridge of Philadelphia appointed Dr. Shoemaker President of the Department of Charities and Correction. Governor Stone has also named the Doctor as one of the Pennsylvania Commissioners to the Paris Exposition.

HENRY REED HATFIELD

Henry Reed Hatfield, the donor of the prize for the best individual score with the pistol by a commissioned or non-commissioned officer, is a well-known member of the Philadelphia Bar.

He is the son of Dr. Nathan Lewis Hatfield, a successful practitioner of medicine, whose father commanded a company in the War of 1812, and whose grandfather was an officer in the Revolution. Graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, he was admitted to the Bar in 1884, is on the non-active roll of the First Troop, Philadelphia City Cavalry, and has always taken a deep interest in manly sports.

The celebrated George W. Biddle was his preceptor, and after admission to the Bar, he was retained in his office as an assistant. He has been Vice-President of the Law Academy of Philadelphia, Supreme Court Reporter for the Atlantic Reporter, and enjoys a lucrative office practice. He has traveled extensively, is scholarly in his tastes, a close student and a proficient linguist.

In 1895 he made an expedition into Iceland, and in the following year went into the interior of Morocco with his own party of guides and Moorish soldiers.

During a residence in Spain in the exciting times preceding the war, he was present when an attack on the United States Legation by the mob of Madrid was barely averted by the Guardia Civile.

Mr. Hatfield is a member of the Rittenhouse, University, St. Anthony, Penn Radnor Hunt, Rose Tree Fox Hunters' Club and others. In his experience in the First Troop as well as in his expeditions in various parts of the globe, Mr. Hatfield has seen the importance of a proficiency in the use of the pistol, especially in the hands of squad leaders. He believes that the knowledge that the leader is a sure shot will often prevent bloodshed.

These views are in accord with the best authorities in our State service, and as a proper incentive to further practice in this department, we hope that this spirit will be emulated by others who feel a similar interest in the welfare and success of the Guard.

NOTES

The 2nd 3d Brigade prize donors are coming to the front. General Charles Miller offers a $200 bronze statuette, Colonel Edward Seldon of Oil City has named a handsome gold medal as his gift, and Major L. T. Brown a trophy of considerable worth. In the 3d Brigade Colonel George M. Halstead, Asst. Commissary General on the Governor's Staff, will present a gold mounted revolver in the officers' shoot. Colonel Charles C. Pratt and Colonel Harry C. Trexler will both present interesting and valuable trophies to the best shots in General Gobin's Brigade.

The 16th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry is making great preparations for a reunion to be held next September at Oil City. The affair will be a two day's celebration, and the necessary expense will be raised by public spirited gentlemen in the vicinity of that city. Many prominent officials will be invited, among them Governor Stone and Staff, General Charles Miller, General J. P. S. Gobin, General John W. Schall, General Thomas J. Stewart, General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Admiral George Dewey and Admiral Schley. The field and staff of the fighting 10th may also take part in the ceremonies. It is expected that a permanent association will be formed at this reunion, and all persons having served in the Regiment during its Puerto-Rican campaign will of course be entitled to membership.

Major THURBER T. BRAZER

FORMERLY IN COMMAND OF BATTALION STATE FENCIBLES

MAJOR THURBER T. BRAZER

The present crisis in the continuity of the State Fencibles Battalion of Philadelphia excites in the minds of National Guardsmen reminiscences of that famous command and its succession of distinguished commanders.

Thurber Thurston Brazer was born in Philadelphia, June 1, 1860, of an old Philadelphia family. His father, the late George W. Brazer, was a son of Alderman Christopher Brazer, a "city father" of ante-consolidation days.

Educated in the public schools the young man, in his sixteenth year, was appointed a clerk in the U. S. Pension Office. In 1879, severing his connection with the Pension Office, he engaged in the cotton business, in which he has continued, and is now a prominent cotton merchant of the city.

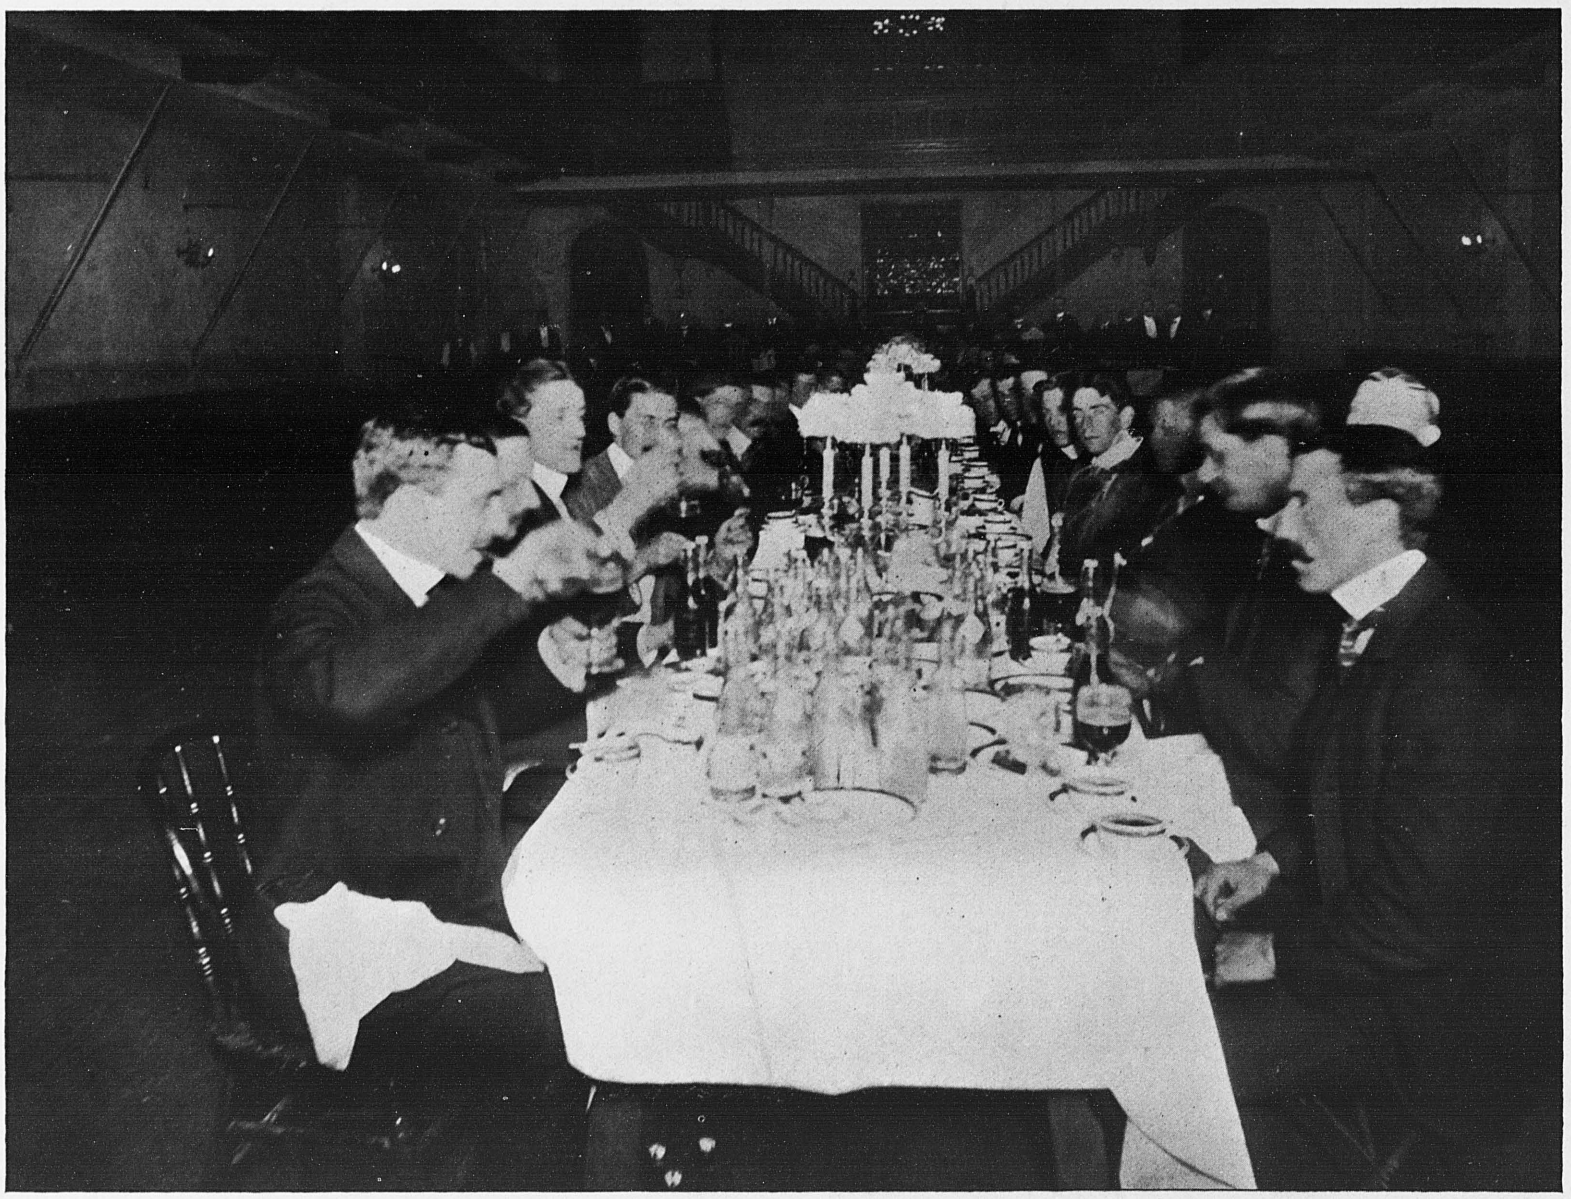
The fame and military splendor of the State Fencibles, early excited the ardor of young Brazer. Immediately upon his retirement from his duties in the Pension Office he enlisted in Company D, June 26, 1879. His mercantile and his military careers commencing simultaneously.

March 11, 1882, he received his first promotion, being made Corporal. With the chevron once at his arm his advancement was rapid; Sergeant, July 27, 1882; 2nd Lieutenant, August 2, 1883; 1st Lieutenant, September 16, 1885; Captain, June 7, 1886; re-elected Captain, June 15, 1891, he served two years of this commission when called to the highest office in the gift of the organization. Chosen Major of the State Fencibles Battalion, June 14, 1893, and being imbued with the Fencibles esprit de corps, his ambition was to maintain the dignity and honor so long enjoyed by the organization under his predecessors since its birth, May 26, 1813.

Receiving his early military training under the late Major John W. Ryan, who was his close personal friend and who instilled in him that Fencible loyalty which has so markedly characterized the organization. Major Brazer, at the outbreak of the Spanish-American War chose for his battalion an assignment to the 6th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry rather than remain out of service. Returning the colors to the armory to the keeping of the veterans, the battalion entered the United States service under the command of Major Brazer as 1st Battalion, 6th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, assigned to the 2nd Brigade, 2nd Division, 2nd Army Corps.

Major Brazer's tireless efforts to safeguard the identity and chartered rights of the Fencibles have evoked the heartiest approbation and support of both rank and file. He has endeared himself to his men both in service and in civil life, and upon the re-instatement of the Volunteer Regiments into the National Guard, he was unanimously re-elected Major of the State Fencibles Battalion.

The year of 1900 witnessed the re-organization of the National Guard of Pennsylvania followed by the assignment of the four Fencible Companies to the 6th Regiment Infantry, N. G. P., leaving the Fencibles Major without a command.



The State Fencibles Banquet tendered Major Thurber T. Brazer, incidental to the presentation of the "Loving Cup" shown on page 7.

The eighty-seventh anniversary of the battalion was commemorated by a testimonial banquet to Major Brazer at which he was the recipient of a massive silver loving cup as an evidence of esteem and appreciation of the rank and file.

In politics Major Brazer has been a staunch and manful Republican, always taking an active part in the battles of his party.

Major Brazer is also a member of the Masonic fraternity, and for a number of years has been a member of William C. Hamilton Lodge, No. 500, which is considered the military lodge of Philadelphia.

His twenty-one years service in the National Guard has been a period of faithful performance of duty, and unremitting devotion to its advancement.

All Fencibles are justly proud of Major Brazer's administration. His steadfast and zealous efforts in promoting the Fencibles' interests have made his name the embodiment of the Fencibles' esprit de corps to which all Fencibles rally and attach themselves.

HEADQUARTERS 16TH REGIMENT INFANTRY,

2D BRIGADE, NATIONAL GUARD OF PENN'A.

ORDER
No. 23. } OIL CITY, PA., July 3, 1900.

1. More will be required of the National Guard of Pennsylvania by critics and the public this year than ever before; yet not for 20 years has there been such a large proportion of new and untrained men in the Guard. The great labor and energy required especially of the officers new to their stations, in order to present creditable companies, is fully recognized by the Colonel Commanding, and to assist and systematize their labors, and to secure uniformity throughout the regiment these orders are promulgated.

2. Company Commanders shall at once make requisitions for campaign hats, blue flannel shirts, cap ornaments and all other articles needed to equip every officer and man in his Company, and what is here said of Company Commanders applies to the Regimental Quartermaster, who is charged with supplying the non-commissioned staff officers with required articles of equipment.

Carefully read the orders from A. G. O. already published; inspect all equipments and make requisitions for needed articles at once, as no requisitions will be filled after July 20th. Attention is especially called to the reports required in June by Section 2 of Order No. 25, A. G. O. C. S. These reports are essential t o secure the State appropriations for Annual Allowance, Armory Rent and Rifle Allowance. No complaints will hereafter be entertained for failures in receipt of these allowances, until after the required reports are first made.

3. Order No. 20, these Headquarters, May 21st, provided for a board that should select a suitable cot, so that the expense of lumber might be avoided, and the men provided with comfortable beds in camp. The cot selected is light and strong, will not cost over $1.40 and with care will last many years. The "kitchen fly" which each company shall provide itself with, and the "mess fly" to be used as shelter for Company mess, which can be hired cheaply, as well as the cot, can all be procured by sending orders for the number required to Col. George C. Rickards, Oil City, Pa., accompanied by check or postal order for the cost thereof. This must be attended to promptly in order to procure them in time for camp. There need be no hesitation on the score of economy, for it is cheaper to hire a mess fly at $12.50 for the encampment than to buy a mess tent at about $120, which will last but a few years; it is cheaper to buy a kitchen fly at $10.50 than it is to build kitchens of hemlock at $18 per thousand, and the cot at $1.40 is more healthful and comfortable and in the long run cheaper than board floors in tents.

Companies that are already supplied with mess tents or cots will of course use them.

4. The squad is the tactical unit. If you have well trained squads you will have a good company. Every company has a number of trained and proficient soldiers, and changes must be promptly made in Sergeants and Corporals until the best men are secured for these important posts.

Divide your companies into the squads that you expect to take into camp; put each squad in command of a Corporal and assign Sergeants to command of sections. See that these officers are competent. Make them responsible for the drill, discipline, and instruction, the set-up and carriage of their squads, and then back them up. A slovenly, wry-backed Corporal never will have a neat, trim, well set-up, alert and soldierly squad. Therefore see to it that you have competent non-coms. You must require him to instruct his squad in your presence. If his squad comes to the "order" with muskets thumping on the ground, if the men are twisting about talking while at "attention," gaping, hump-shouldered and slovenly in carriage; or if he cannot command his squad, if he does not know how to post and relieve and instruct a sentinel, to conduct a squad in extended order as well as to instruct it fully in the "School of the Soldier," and do it in snappy, soldierly fashion, he is not your man and you should change and change until you get one who can do it so.

All non-commissioned officers should make careful study of the Guard Manual, and know the duties of general guides without prompting.

Each Captain will be required to drill his battalion and each Lieutenant will be required to handle his company, in battalion movements, extended order, and outpost duty, and officers found deficient will be cited before an examining board.

5. Each Captain will select an enlisted man for duty with the Hospital Corps, who will be carried on the rolls as "on duty with Hospital Corps."

Loving Cup presented to Major Thurber T. Brazer by Members of the State Fencibles, as a token of their esteem for his long and honorable service in the command

Twenty-five musicians have been enlisted and will be assigned as follows: One, who will be carried on non-com. staff, as Principal Musician, and two to each one of the twelve companies. The enlistment papers for the men assigned to the several companies will be transmitted to the respective captains, accompanied by requisition papers, with measures, etc., for uniforms and full equipment. These requisitions should be promptly signed by the Captains and forwarded to these Headquarters at once, so that the Regimental Band may be equipped. If this is effected promptly, the famous Franklin Cornet Band will have been regularly enlisted in the regiment. Otherwise the regiment will be wholly destitute of music in our next camp.

6. The necessity for greater promptness is the more apparent since the number of companies has been increased to twelve. For instance: The consolidated quarterly return cannot be made up until after the return from the last company to report has been received. A number of the companies are prompt, but at times the gross negligence of Captains to make their reports has delayed the making of the consolidated report for four to six weeks. So in many other particulars delays are caused, and a vast amount of otherwise unnecessary labor, and expense is imposed on these Headquarters by the procrastination and negligence of Company Commanders.

7. As noted in former order, advance details will not be sent to prepare camp. Each soldier will carry his own mess kit. Outfits of dishes, tables, refrigerators and heavy or unnecessary baggage of all sorts will be prohibited.

8. Men of intemperate or disorderly habits should be promptly discharged. The highest and best discipline is that which is imposed by self-respect. The soldierly spirit, and the desire to excel, which prompts high spirited young men to join the Guard, is the real life-blood of the organization, and if you have men in your company who require the eye of an officer upon them, or the fear of punishment, to restrain them from indecent and disorderly conduct, get rid of them at once.

9. The time is growing short, and energy and thought will be required to put your companies in shape, but there is still time enough, if officers and men will grasp the situation, study the Drill Regulations and Guard Manual and require frequent and exacting squad drills, to put the regiment in better shape than ever before.

By order of WILLIS J. HULINGS, Colonel.

THE inspection of the Naval Reserves excepting the infantry drill, was very satisfactory. A general reorganization however will take place shortly, and the entire force merged into one division. While this will reduce the number of officers and cause some changes in the ranks, it is contended that the improvement is necessary. It is also proposed to take practice marches in the early fall, the men being paid the regular State allowance in addition to a thirty cent per diem while on duty. The U. S. S. St. Louis will be returned to the U. S. Government and only the Shearwater used for the practical working of the force.

THe combination formed by the 15th Regiment Companies being assigned to the 16th, is causing Colonel Hulings considerable worriment. It is more than likely that the matter will be overcome by sandwiching the new Companies in the old Battalions, for instance, Colonel Rickards and Major Windsor will each lose one of the old companies. These may be assigned to the 3d Battalion, thus Major Reed will have two of the old companies and two of the new. The original officers of the 16th should immediately sidetrack petty quarrels over positions and take the 15th boys by the hand and say, "You are now one of us and there shall be no distinction."

THE State issues a regular mess pan, knife, fork, spoon and tin cup. It not only seems unsoldierly but ridiculous for company commanders to permit their men to form elaborate messes and cart a lot of chinaware to camp.

The City Troop, for instance, whose ranks are largely composed of gentlemen of means, have never used anything but the utensils furnished by the State or Government. This is the proper way.

Companies insisting upon carting these extra dishes to camp should be compelled to pay freightage and the practice would soon become a thing of the past.

A General Order should be issued to this effect.

Personal Mention

Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart, Colonel Frank G. Sweeney and Captain John S. Muckle, held an informal meeting on Friday evening, June 29th, in the interests of the naval force of the State. It was practically decided to appoint a committee to formulate plans for a general reorganization of the naval branch of the service.

The newly appointed Adjutant of the 18th Infantry, Captain Fred. W. Eggers, is an efficient and popular officer. Colonel Rutledge's command has been greatly handicapped in this department for some time past. The selection of Captain Eggers is strictly one of merit. He has served the Duquesne Grays faithfully since June 5, 1888, when he entered the regiment as its hospital steward.

The meeting held by ex-members of the State Fencibles Battalion at their Armory on Monday evening, July 2nd, was decidedly interesting, inasmuch as they pledged their loyalty to the old organization which is to continue as an Infantry Corps modelled after the Old Guard of New York. Members of the 6th Regiment Companies who were originally enlisted in the State Fencibles Battalion will be eligible to membership. The present Armory will be retained by the Corps, and it is stated that the several active companies will be allowed to remain therein.

General John A. Wiley, in assuming command of the 2nd Brigade, expressed the following: "You have proven to the State, the nation, and the world, that you are worthy of the great esteem in which you were held as citizen-soldiers. Your unanimous response to the call of the Government, your splendid services and the conscientious performance of every duty devolving upon you, at home or abroad, is a proud record. You have stood the shock of war and never faltered in the most complete performance of every task assigned to you, whether in the exciting time of battle or in the monotonous routine duty of the camp. Your return to the service of the State is an evidence of your pariotism and esprit de corps.

Hints for the "Mess"

Now that the camp time is approaching, many of the officers are skirmishing around in preparation for their mess. In some regiments a general mess for officers is an established custom; in others, the Colonel with his field and staff have an exclusive one, while some of the line officers double up with the Company, chipping in an amount sufficient to pay for the cook and his assistants. Still another plan has been adopted by some of the Philadelphia officers whereby a mess of eight men is formed and the expense of each man, as the ration table will show, is $4.40 per man. It practically amounts to each man treating his brother officers to three meals during the season of encampment. There are usually twenty-one meals served, and in this case, the eighth man puts up the same assessment of $4.40, $3.15 being used for ice, seasonings, lemons, and like incidentals.

DAILY RATION FOR EIGHT MEN.

5th REGIMENT NOTES

Captain George W. Crede, Jr., Co. D, has been appointed as officer of a summary court which will sit at Indiana, on July 16th, for the purpose of trying offenders against the Military Code.

The new stand of State colors has been received from the Adjutant General's department.

A meeting of the company commanders was held at Regimental Headquarters on June 22d. It was decided that all the companies should have the regulation mess tent, furnished by the State Arsenal. Also that instead of board cook houses, large canvas flies would be used for the purpose. A uniform system of examinations for the non-commissioned officers of companies will also be adopted as the outcome of the meeting.

The results of the last inspection show a decided improvement in all lines by all the companies, and the average of the regiment will be considerably higher than at the inspection held in February.

The new hospital corps has been fully organized and the Major Surgeon has them at his office for two hours each week, lecturing on various subjects and demonstrating the use of the contents of the first aid packages. He is also instructing them in the use of bandages, tourniquets, splints, and all the accessories of the profession used in the field and hospital.

At the inspection of Company E, on May 23, the regimental band was paraded for the first time, and was inspected by Major John P. Penny, who complimented the leader on the appearance of his men and their music.

They will make proper record of all reports and communications passing through their respective offices, and in cases in which special action may be necessary will record the same thereon by endorsement and make record of the endorsement in an endorsement book.

Official papers will be forwarded or transmitted without delay.

REGIMENTAL, BATTERY AND TROOP SURGEONS.

The surgeons on duty with regiments of infantry should advise freely with the Regimental Commander on all sanitary matters. On the march and in camp they should examine the sick, with a view to their proper treatment and disposition, and should inspect frequently the quarters of officers and enlisted men, kitchens and sinks. The cooking of the food for the command should receive the careful supervision of the surgeons.

The Senior Surgeon on duty with a regiment of infantry is responsible for any unexpendable medical stores and hospital property, as well as for the proper supply of medicines, etc., which supply should be renewed as often as necessary by requisition made upon the Brigade Surgeon or Brigade Hospital, as the case may be, unless otherwise ordered, Regimental Surgeons are directly responsible for the efficiency of the Hospital Corps.

They will forward copies of the morning report of sick and wounded to the Brigade Surgeon and to the Regimental Commander.

HOSPITAL CORPS.

The Hospital Corps of a regiment of infantry consists of a Hospital Steward and one enlisted man detailed for Hospital Corps duty from each company. Details to be made by Commanding Officers of regiments under orders from proper authority. Men detailed for this duty to be intelligent men, competent to discharge understandingly the duties devolving upon them. They should, if possible, be men who have had experience in caring for the sick and wounded. In making details preference should be given to men of military training.

Members of the Hospital Corps while on duty with the Corps in camp will be relieved from all other duty. They should be mustered and inspected with the companies to which they belong, and are expected to keep themselves thoroughly familiar with the duties, drill and general discipline of the soldier.

Each private of the Hospital Corps carries the following articles as his field equipment: Canteen, canteen strap, haversack, haversack strap, litter sling, waist belt, waist belt plate, meat can, tin cup, knife, fork, spoon and hospital corps pouch. When serving as orderly he shall carry a medical officer's orderly pouch, instead of the hospital corps pouch. The field equipment for non-commissioned officers is the same as for privates, with the exception of the litter sling and hospital corps pouch.

The hospital corps pouch contains a small flask of aromatic spirit of ammonia, six first-aid packets, a pen knife for cutting and shaping splints, wire gauze for splints, rubber bandage, gauze bandages, haemostatic forceps, pins and scissors.

Acting hospital stewards are chosen from the privates of the Hospital Corps by their medical officers, by whom they have been recommended as possessing the necessary qualifications. Hospital Stewards are selected from acting hospital stewards who have served not less than three months in the Hospital Corps, have been recommended by their medical officers and who have been approved by a board of not less than three medical officers.

Members of the Hospital Corps shall receive instruction from a medical officer for at least eight hours in every month. The instruction shall consist of lectures and demonstrations of the method of rendering first aid to the sick and wounded, of drills in the ambulance service and as litter bearers.

The practical demonstrations should teach the methods of arresting hemorrhage, of applying first aid dressings, of making extemporized dressings for fractures, reviving those who have been under water, etc. Instruction should also include the anatomy of bones, locations of great blood vessels, the treatment of faintness, heat exhaustion, sunstroke, etc.

The men should be taught how to take and record temperatures, to make and apply poultices and plasters, and to prepare sterilized dressings and instruments for operations. They should be instructed likewise in the art of cooking for the sick, they should learn how to make jellies, broths, eggnogs and other forms of liquid foods, as well as how to prepare eggs and meats in a palatable manner.
